

GIFT THIS WEEK

January 2025 Edition I

"Great things are not done by impulse, but by a series of small things brought together." – Vincent van Gogh

Welcome back to Gift This Week!

After a brief pause, we are delighted to bring this beloved magazine back to life, showcasing the vibrant activities, achievements, and creativity within our college. Each issue will highlight the dedication and innovation that define our campus life.

This week, we celebrate an array of achievements and initiatives—from awards at the State Level Flower Show to innovative student projects. Additionally, we feature an insightful alumni byte, where our alumni share their experiences and the impact of their time at GIFT on their professional journeys.

Dive in to explore how our campus continues to grow, inspire, and thrive.

Warm regards,
Bismita Manjari Biswal

Our Alumni, Our Pride: Hari OM's GIFTed Journey of Growth and Leadership

Graduation at GIFT was a transformative chapter of my life, a time filled with discovery, growth, and unforgettable memories. It was here that I forged lifelong friendships, developed a passion for technology, and learned the value of perseverance. The late-night study sessions, spirited debates, and extracurricular activities shaped not just my career but also my character. The guidance of inspiring professors and the camaraderie with peers created an environment that encouraged me to dream big and embrace challenges. The trio with my two best friends concurring college events and tech fests shaped my leadership qualities that help me now as a Team Lead in my organisation. Looking back, my college years were not just about academics but also about discovering who I am and laying the foundation for a fulfilling professional journey.

A special note for my classmates and of course my juniors. Thank you for being a friend and guide for me, you all are my real GIFT that I treasure till date.

And teachers sorry not sorry for bunking a few classes. It was fun learning with you all. Your mentorship resulted just fine.